1871. I have been thinking much lately of the different ways in which we are affected by the various elements of our environment.

It is a very interesting subject, and one which has not been fully explored by the philosophers.

FOREWORD

The primary purpose of this Roster is to supply help to applicants for membership in the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, and to others who assist them in completing their application papers. In the Roster 350 genealogists and 1000 local historians are listed. There are also lists of New York Historical Societies and libraries having major genealogical collections.

The listing is alphabetical by counties, and then by the places within each county. The date the county was organized, its parent county, and the county seat are given.

The classifications are a-for amateur, p-for professional, and f-for family genealogist, and lh-for local historian. Names, address, and classifications are given as they were sent in. No effort was made to check qualifications. In order to keep the cost to $1, detailed qualifications, attainments, and membership in other organizations were omitted.

Addresses do not always indicate the area where the person may specialize. Those living in or near large cities have great research collections to consult.

All arrangements are to be made directly between the client and the genealogist or historian. Send specific queries and always include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Fees should be discussed when writing to professionals as their rates vary. Some will aid D.A.R. applicants gratis.

An invaluable pamphlet giving general suggestions, and concrete references for research in New York State is available as a companion to this Roster. "Some References for Genealogical Research in New York State", by Miss Dorothy C. Barck, Librarian for the New York State Historical Association, and Editor of its Quarterly Magazine; was published in 1959 by the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research. Large quantities should be ordered from the Society, in care of the Burton Historical Collection, Detroit Public Library, Detroit 2, Michigan.

As researchers will welcome the Roster and the References, D.A.R. Chapters are urged to present both items to their local libraries and historical societies, so that more persons may consult them. If not given as a gift, please tell the libraries of them and where they are to be obtained. The price is $1 for each.

Order the Roster from the compiler, who will also have a limited supply of the "References" to take care of small orders. Send to:

NEW YORK STATE LOCAL HISTORIANS

June 1960

New York State has a unique system of local historians. Since 1919 a State law provides for the appointment of a historian in each city, town, village, and county. Sometimes the same person holds more than one appointment.

These historians, mostly unpaid, often are not in a position to undertake genealogical research, or interested in genealogy, but many will be willing to do so. They are the logical source for first inquiries in any area, because they are familiar with the people and events of that locality.

State your problem concisely and enclose a stamped, self addressed envelope. They can advise you about records and research possibilities, and suggest other persons to contact. This is true of historical societies and libraries. If you wish research done inquire as to the fees charged, if any. Remember that these are busy people often employed in other fields.

Again we acknowledge our debt to Dr. Albert B. Corey, New York State Historian for this list and his interest and cooperation.
